Mr. and Mrs. Win Rodgers, Mrs. F. M Davidson and Mrs. C. M Brower and children returned the forepart of the week from a several days outing down the river in Mr. Rodgers' launch. The party report an extremely pleasant trip Most of the time was spent off Castle Windy, to the eastward of Oak Hill, where they found fishing excellent and caught great numbers of bass, whiting, blue fish and mullet, Mrs. Brower leading with the capture of an eight or ten pound bass. They also secured a quanity of clams and Mr. Rodgers shot a few ducks, akthough he made no special President-Elect Expressed Cordial effort to hunting. They so enjoyed themselves that they are already planning another trip later in the season.

Passengers as Bouncers. A passenger in a full rallway carriage in England has a perfect legal right to push away any one else who tries to get into it. This decision was given at Marylebone police court when man complained that he was pushed out of a carriage at Bishop's road station by another passenger, who said the car was full. "It is the duty of conductors," said the court, "to see that the trains are not overcrowded. They are perfectly entitled to use reasonable force to prevent any one from hoarding cars when they are full. if they fall to avail themselves of this right the possessors are entitled to act for themselves."

Wherever he looked the Egyptian beheld preparations for the great turning point of existence. The mason was grave for the protection or refreshment It is probable that an orchestra will of the Ka, exhausted with the ordeals be engaged for the season at the Prince of the underworld; the sculptor and painter were at work upon the walls of the funeral chamber, illustrating the scenes through which the ghost was to pass or depicting the industrious life of the departed.

The very temples which cluster along the levels beside the Nile were in a sense but vestibules to the tombs in the hills behind. The sacred lake, now the weedy, picturesque haunt of waterfowl, was then the scene of solemn ferryings of the dead. The temple walls were covered with the terrors of the judgment to come. The houses of the living, indeed, were built of perishing mud, but the homes of the dead and the shrines where supplication was made to the gods who ruled their fate were made to last forever. On these all the strength, the science and the artistic skill of the ancient Egyptians were cheerfully lavished.-London Saturday Review.

Ab, dream too bright to inst!

Ab, starry hope that didst arise
But to be evercast!

A voice from out the future ories:
"On, en!"—but o'er the past
(Dim guif!) my spirit hovering lies blute, motioniese, aghast!

For, alsa, sins, with me
The light of life is o'er!
Ne more—no more—no more
(fluch language holds the solemn sea
To the sands upon the shore)—
Shall bloom the thunder blasted tree
Or the stricken eagle soar!

And all my days are trances.

And all my nightly dreams

Are where thy dark eye giances

And where thy footstep gleams—
In what ethereal dances.

By what eternal streams?
